Aluminum

ErgoSystem® is available in eight standard aluminum color options.

ErgoSystem® can be custom-adapted to specific settings through its variable color finishes. The colors of brackets, structural parts and hand/grab rails can be freely combined, thus facilitating sufficient contrast to ensure optimum visibility within a space. From matte to high gloss, the finishes draw on coatings that are either supplied in 1-color or 2-color configurations. For example, the standard finish combination 8810 comprises a handrail in White (8220) and brackets in Light Grey (8803). See all finish options on page 2.

Surface quality

In particular, finishes on hand-holds, handrails and shelves and trays brought about by electrostatic powder coating (EPC) are far more resilient to cleansers, scratching or wear than conventional powders and procedures of a purely decorative persuasion.

The matte color shades boast above-average surface hardness and outstanding mechanical properties allowing them to be recommended for areas in which particularly high loads are to be expected.

Stainless Steel

METRIC® is consciously understated, being defined by geometric forms and premium stainless steel. The stylistic contrast between round roses and rectangular-section supports is a thematic thread that runs through the entire series. The combination of the two simultaneously underscores the crisp structuring of the system's parts.

Its astutely balanced proportions have a soothing effect and blend harmoniously with a variety of design concepts. Ergonomic criteria have been taken into account wherever they are an aid to fluent sequences of movements. The holder for the toothbrush glass, for example, tilts towards the user in a manner that facilitates the act of removing the glass.

As well as being aesthetically pleasing, Stainless Steel exudes an authenticity that combines particularly well with natural materials such as wood and granite and makes it a firm contender for inclusion in quality bathroom schemes. This dependable material has a justifiable reputation for being serviceable, corrosion-resistant, easy to look after and durable.

The quality with which FSB works Stainless Steel is the upshot of many decades of experience gained from producing well-designed, superlatively engineered hardware for doors and windows.
